

AllHipHop's Class Of '88 : MC Lyte

1988 was a huge year for Rap. If you have been following this series up to now, then you know why. The amount of legends those twelve months produced will probably never be matched again. You had Kane, Rakim, Public Enemy, EPMD and a host of other dudes dropping classics left and right. Imagine trying to compete with them and being a female on top of that. Well MC Lyte did just that.

Continue reading