They Call it Graffiti by Ernie Paniccioli THEY CALL IT GRAFFITI

Photos from 1979-2008 including LEE, DEZ, VULCAN, Keith Haring, TATS CRU, WALLNUTS, BEEN, KANO, KAOS, TOO FLY, MERES,

JAMES TOP, many years of Graffiti Hall of Fame celebrations and more from a photographer who has devoted more than three and a half decades to photographing Graffiti around the world. "I am in love with the art form but did not want to add just another high minded, serious, thoughtful look at Graffiti, nor did I desire to just overwhelm the reader with hundreds of bright, well lit, perfectly composed murals. Instead I wanted to take the reader on a fun, odd, eclectic, creative look at the art itself as well as the environment it which this art form springs." – Ernie Paniccioli

78 pages. Print: $24.98 Download: $5.00

About Ernie Paniccioli

Before Rap and Hip Hop videos adorned screens and airwaves all over the world, Ernie with his endless drive and intuitive style of photography, was beginning to help artists like Slick Rick, Grandmaster Flash, The Rock Steady Crew, Doug E. Fresh, Ice Cube, Queen Latifah, Public Enemy, Salt-N-Pepa and many many more. His work has decorated such illustrious publications as Rolling Stone, Vibe, The New York Times, Newsweek, Life, SPIN and Ebony. He has also shot for MTV and VH1 and has photos published in books, on album covers and posters throughout the globe. Paniccioli's work has also been displayed in various exhibits including The New York City Urban Experience Museum where 110 pieces from his Hip Hop Gallery were displayed making it the largest one man photography show in New York City history. When asked which of his photographs is his favorite, Ernie responds "My favorite photograph is my next one."

Ernie has lectured on the art and nature of Hip Hop at numerous universities and other forums throughout the nation and has appeared as a a dynamic guest speaker on hundreds of radio stations. Paniccioli's overwhelming drive and determination has lead to his most recent accomplishments: In November 2007, his film, "The Other Side of Hip Hop" on his life, art politics and photography was been awarded Best Documentary in the 2007 Big Apple Film Festival. . It has also screened at The San Diego Black Film Festival. In December, 2007, Ernie appeared in Oscar winning Phillip Seymour Hoffman's play, "The Long Red Road", at the Public Theatre. This year, he self published eight new books available only through stores.lulu.com/ErniePaniccioli.

Although some might say that Hip Hop today has fallen off its base, according to Ernie, "We need not look further than the world that surrounds us. Hip Hop is a mirror of society. The problem is not Hip Hop moving in the wrong direction, it's us. We are the ones moving off track."
