

Beyoncé and Solange: Hope for the Holidays to premiere exclusively on Fuse Dec 21

Fuse celebrates the holidays with a Knowles sisters' intimate hometown performance "Beyoncé and Solange: Hope for the Holidays." The concert will benefit the Gulf Coast Ike Relief Fund to aid Texas victims of Hurricane Ike through the Survivor Foundation, a Knowles family charity helping people in need. This historic concert will take place at Houston's House of Blues on Tuesday, December 9th. The one hour concert special will premiere exclusively on Fuse on Sunday, December 21st, at 10PM ET.

"We are thrilled to collaborate with Beyoncé, Solange and the entire Knowles Family to air this momentous concert on Fuse, benefiting the families devastated by Hurricane Ike," said Matt Farber, EVP, Programming, Development & Digital. "Bringing these two accomplished sisters together on one stage for the first time not only provides our viewers with a great concert, it also gives back to a community in need during challenging times."

"It is an honor for our family to be able to give back to our hometown with a holiday concert that will air on Fuse," said father and manager Mathew Knowles. "Tina grew up in Galveston and still has family and friends there and we're fortunate to bring Beyoncé and Solange together to support the efforts of The Gulf Coast Ike Relief Fund through the Survivor Foundation."

One of 2008's most anticipated new album releases, I AM SASHA FIERCE is Beyoncé's first studio collection since her Grammy-winning multi-platinum-selling album,

Beyoncé™. Beginning her career as a member of Destiny's Child, her first full-length solo debut album, 2003's Dangerously in Love, went multi-platinum and garnered five Grammy® wins. She went on to tour internationally to sold-out arenas, starred in Destiny Fulfilled and most recently played the part of R&B legend Etta James in Darnell Jones's Destiny Fulfilled: Cadillac Records opening in theatres nationwide in December.

Solange, the classically trained dancer got her start by traveling the world as a backup dancer for (her big sister's group) Destiny's Child. She released her first solo album Solo Star on Columbia Records and after taking some time off for marriage and motherhood, Solange is back with her sophomore album. Capturing a time when music was melodic and soulful, but with a modern twist, Sol-Angel & the Hadley St. Dreams dropped in August 2008.

The Survivor Foundation

The Survivor Foundation is a 501(c)(3) organization designed to assist persons displaced whose lives have been affected by disasters, natural or otherwise. The Survivor Foundation, a family charity supported by Beyoncé, Mathew and Tina Knowles, Kelly Rowland and Solange Knowles, also helps people in need, providing assistance to children and to those suffering from AIDS and homelessness. Over the past few years, the Survivor Foundation has donated over two and a half million dollars just in the Houston area alone. Initiatives with the Knowles-Rowland Center, Knowles Rowland Temenos Place Apartments, Houston Habitat for Humanity, the Beyoncé Experience World Tour Food Drives, Annual Music World Cares "Holiday Carnival," and Hurricane Katrina Relief are just a few of the community efforts of the Survivor Foundation with Beyoncé being the major contributor.
