

Throwback: Michael Wycoff - Looking Up To You

[youtube]F0_Wuw8LjYA[/youtube]

Michael Wycoff is a singer and keyboardist from Los Angeles, California.

His major entry into the music business was working as a back-up vocalist on Stevie Wonder's Songs In The Key Of Life. In 1980 he began to record as a solo artist and the next year saw the release of his first project Come To My World. "Feel My Love" and "One Alone" were the two hits that came from that album. Love Conquers All was the 1982 follow-up to Come To My World and it spawned "Looking Up To You" which had a second life when sampled by Zhane for "Hey Mr. DJ" Wycoff's third album On The Line, became his most popular release thanks to the singles "Tell Me Love," "There's No Easy Way" and "So Close." He took a hiatus from the industry because of personal addictions but eventually returned to music in the church. The artist now uses his talent as a Minister of Music in various houses of worship in the Los Angeles area.