

Danny Brown, Juicy J, A-Trak and More To Play Fool's Gold Day Off In NYC

Hot off the heels of opening their flagship store in Brooklyn, the Fool's Gold crew returns with another trailblazing New York event: Day Off, a free, all-ages, all-day extravaganza on Monday, September 5th at City Winery.

The thousands of people who attended last year's Day Off (or saw the party footage immortalized in Duck Sauce's smash "Barbra Streisand" video) spent an afternoon living it up with the country's most fun MCs and DJs, eating hamburgers in one hand and catching a crowd-surfing Yelawolf in the other. For this year's Day Off, the vibes will once again be handled by true good-time professionals: Juicy J of Three 6 Mafia, with his first NYC show since releasing the underground favorite Rubba Band Business mixtapes, critically acclaimed Fool's Gold rapper Danny Brown, multiplatinum producer and club king Just Blaze, the Brothers Macklovitch (aka superstar sibling DJ team A-Trak and Dave 1 of Chromeo), drum machine wizards Araabmuzik and Party Supplies, FG future funk trio Cubic Zirconia, and label co-founder / party rocker extraordinaire Nick Catchdubs, along with some very special guests...

Get there early, attendance is based on capacity.
