

Whitney Houston's Funeral Will Be Livestreamed

Whitney Houston's publicist Kristen Foster announced today that Houston's Saturday funeral at the New Hope Baptist Church will be livestreamed over the internet. Houston's funeral arrangements have been a source of constant change in the media and an original plan for a public service at New Jersey's Prudential Center was scrapped. It seems that the family understands and acknowledges how much the singer meant to her fans and how they would want to be able to participate in her homegoing service. The funeral is supposed to start at 12PM EST and you can see the webcast by clicking here.