

Black Folk Don't Returns For Season 3 On December 2nd

[youtube id="P6JU2iGnTNI"]

Angela Tucker's web series, "Black Folk Don't," about African-American stereotypes returns for season three based on the West Coast with new types to dismantle. In between anecdotal interviews with everyday people there are appearances from Fishbone founder and bass player Norwood Fisher and film maker Ava DuVernay as they discuss Black people and the NRA, plastic surgery, going green, horror films and feminism.