"All That I Got Is You" is Ghostface Killah's tribute to his mother and the first single from his '96 debut album, Ironman. Mary J. Blige appears on the album version of the song, but Wu-Tang singer Tekitha appeared in the video. The video was directed by Terry Heller and Chuck Ozeas and has become legendary for its stark images of poverty. Last year Ghostface released his Adrian Younge collaboration 12 Reasons To Die. In early 2014 he appeared on the reality show Couples Therapy.
