The Yaya DaCosta hosted seventh season of Afropop: The Ultimate Cultural Exchange airs on Monday and this is the trailer. The episodes cover the lives and culture of African-Americans and Africans. From the history of A.I.D.S. to the work from New York City artists featured in The Triptych the series seeks to cover broad variety of issues in the lives of the subjects. Angela Tucker is producer of the series and Duana Butler is the director. You can go the American Public Television site to find the broadcast times in your area. Dacosta will also be seen tomorrow in Lifetime's Angela Basset-directed Whitney playing the lead role of Whitney Houston.
