The Nick Straker Band emerged from their London, England base in the '80s and had success with the single "A Little Bit Of Jazz" on the American Hot Dance Music/Club Play chart in '81. Their pop-fusion hit was heard on R&B radio and influential dance clubs like the Paradise Garage and The Warehouse in Chicago. The band broke-up after four albums but "A Little Bit Of Jazz" is still a crowd-pleaser at old school dance parties.
