

Prince's Family Has A Reality Show In The Works

Prince's family is planning a reality according to a report from TMZ today. The show will focus on their lives after Prince's passing. The Deliverance EP was going to be released on the anniversary of his death (April 21st) but was stopped by the family because they want to debut the music on the reality show. George Ian Boxhill is the producer behind Deliverance and he is fighting with the estate to keep the music. The family has a production company on board but there is no word on any interested media outlets as they are still searching for a deal.
