

The Grammys Add Review Nomination Committee For Rap Category

The Grammys are changing their voting process to an online process and they are adding a review committee for the rap category. According to the press release, online voting will ensure that more people vote and avoid fraud. The review committee is supposed to be a safeguard to prevent artists from winning in the category solely for their popularity instead of the music itself. The Grammys have also given songwriters the opportunity to be recognized for in the Album Of The Year category.
