

Kilo Kish Has Interactive Video For Fulfillment

[youtube id="doYvLYAhQuU"] Kilo Kish releases an interactive video for her song "Fulfillment." Kish directed and conceptualized the video she explains,

"Using the space I had built out from my show at hvw8 gallery I used security cameras to film the performance. I also created a site where you can flip between views and create your own version of the video. The voyeuristic quality of watching security footage of someone alone in a big white box asks the question how do we find and define fulfillment in our digital society."

The artist is coming off the Life Aquatic Tour she was on with Vince Staples. She had the opportunity to present her live show in 28 cities. Kish is currently working on an exhibition for Art Basel in Miami.
