A musical about the music and life of Michael Jackson is coming to Broadway in 2020. Lynn Nottage, a two-time Pulitzer winner, will write the musical and Tony winner Christopher Wheeldon is responsible for the choreography and direction. Jackson's estate and Columbia Live Stage announced the production today. Many of Jackson's hit songs will be used in the musical. It will be the second time the music of Michael Jackson was used in stage play because London's West End presented Thriller Live in 2009.
