

Lenny Kravitz Releases New Video For Low

[youtube id="BilaShsQphM"]Lenny Kravitz already released an earlier video for his song "Low" that featured old film of New York City during the '70s. The new video for "Low" features him playing drums in the dark with a woman who is also behind her own drum kit. Kravitz explained to Rolling Stone how director Jean-Baptiste Mondino came up with the video:Â

"When [Mondino] heard "Low" for the first time he focused on the beat and kept listening to it over and over. The result was a black room, black drum set, and black clothing. It was all about the groove and the space. It turned into an interesting way to present a song, that has so much production, and portray the conversation taking place in the song."

Kravitz's Raise Vibration album will come out September 7th. He is currently touring Europe and will start a North America tour in September.Â