

Apollo Brown Gives Preview Of Sincerely, Detroit Album With God Help Me Feat. Black Milk, Ketchphrase & DJ Los

Apollo Brown's next release is all about him connecting with fellow Detroit artists and sharing the uniqueness of the city's hip-hop sound. Brown's new project is called Sincerely, Detroit and he worked with over 50 artists for the double album. Elzhi, Trick Trick, Clear Soul Forces, Royce Da 5' 9", Illa J and Miz Korona are among the voices heard on the 21 songs exclusively produced by Brown. "God Help Me" featuring Black Milk, Ketchphrase and DJ Los is the first song to stream before the October 29th release date. Brown explained his motivation for the album in a statement:Â

"There are cities that get by on their good looks, offer climate and scenery, views of mountains or oceans, rockbound, or with palm trees. And then there are blue-collar cities like Detroit, that have to work for a living. Cities that rely on the toughness and resiliency of their people. Cities that will not quit. Detroit has an unmistakable soul; nobody can duplicate what we give to the world.â€"

Sincerely, Detroit by Apollo Brown