

Fly Anakin Announces Debut Album & Reveals Video For No Dough

Fly Anakin's debut album Frank is coming but today he shares the video for the Madlib-produced "No Dough." In a minute and a half the camera follows the Virginia native have a drink and snatch his money back at a bar. After six years and more than 25 projects, Anakin is ready for the release of his album on British label Lex Records. Anakin released his independent Pixote long player in 2021. He and Madlib step into a space of soul records with rap edits and together they become Flylib. Frank officially comes out March 11th.Â
