

Redman Collaborates With The Potatohead People On Last Nite

Redman and The Potatohead People (Nick Wisdom and AstroLogical) have collaborated on the single "Last Nite." The New Jersey veteran tells the tale of a night of pleasure atop jazzy beats with horn stabs and a lazy Rhodes keyboard. The song will be on the Vancouver production duo's fourth album, Eat Your Heart Out. Redman's fiery flow rides the warmth of the analog sound with his usual humor and candidness. T3, Frank Nitt, and Shafiq Husayn are some of the guest artists on EYHO. The Producers describe the next album as "an album about our most connected human emotion, the subject of eons of songs written and eons of songs to-be written: love & the ways it comes into play in our lives.” Eat Your Heart Out will be released on May 24th on Bastard Jazz Recordings and can be pre-ordered now.
