

The Whitney E. Houston Legacy
Foundation's 3rd Annual Gala
Will Be Hosted By Kevin
Frazier And Have Performances
By Yolanda Adams & More

The Whitney E. Houston Legacy Foundation and Primary Wave Music will present the 3rd Annual Whitney E. Houston Legacy Foundation Gala on Friday, August 9th, 2024, at the St. Regis

Hotel in Atlanta, Georgia, which marks the 30th anniversary of Whitney Houston's three historic post-apartheid visits and performances following Nelson Mandela's historic election win as the then President of the new South Africa. Whitney was the first major recording artist to perform in the newly unified, post-apartheid nation. She performed at Kings Park Stadium in Durban (November 8, 1994), Ellis Park Stadium, also known as Emirates Airline Park, in Johannesburg (November 12, 1994), which was filmed for the HBO Special, and the final performance was held at Green Point Stadium in Cape Town (November 19, 1994.)

Four-time Grammy Award-winning recording artist Yolanda Adams will be the headlining performer at this year's gala, with a special performance by Gary Houston, Whitney's brother and longtime duet partner and background singer, along with more surprises. The event will be hosted by Kevin Frazier of Entertainment Tonight and Pat Houston, president of the Whitney E. Houston Legacy Foundation. The Honorary Chair is Clive Davis, the legendary Rock and Roll Hall of Famer and Chief Creative Officer of Sony Music Entertainment.

Also performing are Gregory Sams and Denisia, the recent winners of The Whitney E. Houston Legacy Foundation's Cover Song Competition. The charity grant will be presented to Mirriam Solani Mazibuko, the director of the Orlando Children's Home in South Africa, which is one of the organizations that Whitney extended a generous financial donation to through her foundation thirty years ago. Last month, Pat Houston and team members of the Foundation traveled to South Africa to a few of the places that Whitney visited in November 1994, including the Orlando Children's Home, to spend time with the young residents there, where they prepared a presentation and performed a song.

Also, during that time, thirty years ago, Whitney initially planted a tree at the Nelson Mandela home, which is now named the Nelson Mandela Museum. "Our trip to South Africa a few weeks ago was very fulfilling and emotional," says Pat Houston. "A few of us haven't been back to South Africa since 1994. Whitney would be proud to know that the Orlando Children's Home is still there and serving an important and vital purpose in the community. She would also be pleased about some of the substantial growth in the country in many areas. And she would be delighted to know that the tree she planted at the Nelson Mandela Museum is beautiful, still flourishing, and in a safe place, surrounded by love."

The annual fundraiser, which is held on August 9th to commemorate and celebrate Whitney's birthday, includes scholarships that will be presented to students studying the arts at historically Black Colleges and Universities (HBCUs); both a silent and online auction on Charity Buzz featuring a variety of one-of-a-kind curated items and packages, including original and limited-edition artwork by both South African and American artists; five-star luxury vacation excursions opening night tickets to the U.S. Open, and much more.

In 2020, The Estate of Whitney E. Houston formed The Whitney E. Houston Legacy Foundation to continue the mission and important work of the late global superstar's lifelong commitment to today's youth through program initiatives and services that reflect the values and needs of our young people. The Foundation also serves as a source of empowerment to help rebuild, repair, and restore the self-esteem of our youth and assist them in living productive lives.

Whitney Houston's global charitable work was initially established in 1989 as the Whitney Houston Foundation for Children. The organization provided much-needed resources to homeless children, built inner city parks and playgrounds, and provided college scholarships. Known for its world-renowned charitable initiatives and partnerships, the Foundation partnered with the Children's Defense Fund, Childhood

Diabetes, The Rain Forest Foundation, Hale House, Special Olympics, United Negro College Fund, St. Jude Children's Research, and Whitney's historic South Africa concerts, of which a portion of the proceeds benefited local South African children's charities.

In 1997, Houston's elementary school was renamed The Whitney E. Houston Academy for Performing & Creative Arts. Originally opened in 1873, the Franklin School is now the oldest building in the East Orange, New Jersey, school district. Jersey,

About Rev. Fred D. Taylor:

Rev. Fred D. Taylor was born on October 23, 1942, in Autauga County, Alabama, and spent his early years on a plantation. At age thirteen, he met Dr. Ralph David Abernathy and became actively involved in the Montgomery Bus Boycott. Rev. Taylor graduated from Booker T. Washington High School in 1961, earned his undergraduate degree at Alabama State College, and received his Master of Divinity from the Morehouse School of Religion at the Interdenominational Theological Center in Atlanta, Georgia.

In 1969, he joined the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC) and served in various roles over four decades, working closely with Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., Rosa Parks, Coretta Scott King, Dr. Joseph Lowery, and Rev. James Orange, among others. Even after retiring from the SCLC in 2007, Rev. Taylor remained a vocal advocate during the Black Lives Matter Movement, helped get out the vote (GOTV) in Georgia, and volunteered with Georgia Stand Up and Georgia Coalition for the People's Agenda. Rev. Taylor died June 21, 2024 at the age of 81-years-old.

Dr. Mathur's Angel Longevity Medical Center Supports Functional Medicine Awareness for Chronic Disease Day

Studio City, CA – When Dr. Anju Mathur experienced health complications years ago, the shortcomings of her medical practice really hit home. While traditional medicine suppresses the symptoms of illness, she realized that actual healing needed to occur at a root level. She began to investigate alternative treatments for her own transformation, which led to the establishment of her functional medicine office, the Angel Longevity Medical Center. For over 15 years now, Dr. Mathur has been administering prescriptions that infuse her patients with long-term health and Blue Zone-tempered wellness to defy the effects of aging. In acknowledgment of Chronic Disease Day in July, Dr. Mathur is hoping to expand awareness of alternative healing modalities.

Around the world, there are Blue Zone areas that host individuals with good health and lower rates of chronic diseases who live past the age of 100. As a holistic and functional medicine practitioner, Dr. Mathur works to secure similar results for her patients. With aging, the risk of prolonged illnesses, like cancer, diabetes, heart disease, and Alzheimer's is increased. The power of self-rejuvenation decreases with senescence and brings symptoms that include muscle mass loss, weight gain, kidney issues, inflammation, and high blood pressure. Functional medicine differentiates from traditional methods by uncovering the root causes of persistent health issues and autoimmune disorders. This alternative medicinal approach allows Dr. Mathur to focus on extending one's lifespan.

Through customized diagnoses, Dr. Mathur and her staff hone a creative combination of resources that boost the immune system and promote prolonged renewal at a cellular level. Dr. Mathur's prescribed health plans typically include combinations of natural medications, hormone replacement therapy, IV treatments, fitness, and nutrition coaching. As a menopause specialist, she has also successfully guided hundreds of women through midlife changes with her attentive treatment methods.

“Blue Zones are areas of the world where people live their longest lives, but you can achieve the blue zone effect no matter where you are when you are consciously maintaining a healthy state of living and that is my fundamental goal for my patients,” explains Dr. Mathur. “Functional medicine is a very personalized, and yes, pro-aging approach to physical restoration. Every patient has unique traits that revolve around their genetics and environment. When these traits are analyzed and understood, an individualized program is created for the patient which targets the root cause of their ailments. When the malfunctions of the body are targeted at the base, the body can begin to align and correct itself and the life span is lengthened.”

In addition to achieving wonderful results in restoring her patients to health and vitality, Dr. Anju Mathur is the founder of Angel Pure MD, an assemblage of health supplements made of natural ingredients. The product line consists of Angel Calm, Super Food, Adrenal Fuel, Prebiotic, and Meno-Pro, which she uses in her private practice when dispensing medications for her patients.

Dr. Mathur is an active community philanthropist, providing support to numerous non-profit agencies. A few of her favorite organizations include The Boys & Girls Clubs, Drug-Free World, and The Way to Happiness Foundation. An advocate of literacy for improving the social betterment of society at large, she has personally sponsored book campaigns distributing thousands of free books to youths for over a decade in communities as far as New Delhi, India, to local neighborhoods in Los Angeles, CA.

Dr. Anju Mathur trained and practiced as a medical doctor in the Greater Los Angeles Area and is board-certified in anti-aging medicine by the American Academy of Anti-Aging and Regenerative Medicine. She studied at Maulana Azad Medical College in New Delhi, followed by a residency at the Martin Luther King Jr./Drew Medical Center in Los Angeles. She trained in functional medicine at IFM, the Institute of Functional Medicine.

While Dr. Mathur works with her patients by providing them with the best natural medicines and lifestyle choices, her commitment to her community at large is also commendable. A society enabled by healthy individuals not crippled with chronic ailments can create a Blue Zone world that benefits everyone. A true visionary in functional medicine, Dr. Anju Mathur advocates for a paradigm shift toward holistic care, one patient at a time!
