

Cochran Firm Charlotte Attorney Faith Fox Hosts “Acts of Faith -Conversations in the Pandemic” a New Online Series with Celebrity Guests

Charlotte, NC – Amid the current drama of the Coronavirus pandemic, simple acts of faith are the strings keeping many connected to visions of brighter days. As the Managing Partner at The Cochran Firm Charlotte, Attorney Faith Fox’s office has been bombarded with calls from people seeking legal consultation for their many unanswered pandemic related issues and questions. In an effort of broader world and community service, Fox is launching a live, online series, “Acts of Faith – Conversations in the Pandemic with Attorney Faith Fox,” every Sunday at 4:00 p.m. during the month of May, beginning May 10, Mother’s Day. The one-hour presentation will stream on Instagram Live at @cochranfirmcharlotte and replay on Facebook on The Cochran Firm Charlotte page. Fox has invited special friends as guests to join her throughout the series, including sports journalist and commentator Stephen A. Smith, NBA veteran Sam Perkins, actor Keith Burke from Tyler Perry's "The Haves and the Have Nots," and renowned civil rights attorney Benjamin Crump.

With "Acts of Faith," Fox will hash out some common concerns and misconceptions for navigating the pandemic and discuss the effects on families, friendships, and businesses. The show will be a casual meeting for discussions that center around Covid-19 concerns, legal and beyond. Weekly segments will include "Keep the Faith" offering COVID-19 updates and "Faithful Deeds," providing goodwill public service announcements about census submissions, voting, and Covid-19 related news. "It's Gonna Take Faith" will uncover news that is hard to believe, but true, while "Speaking from Faith" will see Fox sharing as a mother and speaking from personal experience and not her law degree. Each show will answer questions in the "Got Faith?" segment, with viewers encouraged to submit queries prior the airing of the show.

"I think it's safe to say that none of us saw this pandemic coming, but now here we are," expresses Fox. "Faith is what gets us through crisis. As a working mom, I realize we're all facing unexpected anxieties, juggling kids no longer in school, transitioning from the office to working from home, trying to traverse this experience and stay healthy. I'm hoping 'Acts of Faith,' will provide important and supportive information, through open conversation. It is my belief that through encouraging words and a healthy dialogue, we can conquer fears and get to the other side of this with as little bruising as possible."

A single mother and former music industry executive, Fox knows the power of exercising faith. It was a divorce and a bitter custody battle that led her to pursue a law degree as another career. Per her own personal ordeal in family court without proper legal representation, she was deeply impacted by an overwhelming feeling of helplessness and wanted to mitigate that experience for others. After securing her law degree, Fox opened her own practice The Law Office of Faith Fox PLLC.

Attorney Faith Fox Celebrates Black History Month as The Cochran Firm Carolina Newly Appointed Managing Partner

Attorney Faith Fox

Charlotte, NC – When Attorney Faith Fox opened her private practice, The Law Office of Faith Fox PLLC, just a few years ago, her mission was one of dedicated service. Per her own personal ordeal in family court without proper legal representation, she was deeply impacted by an overwhelming feeling of helplessness and wanted to mitigate that experience for others. Now with her new appointment as Managing Partner for The Cochran Firm in Charlotte, NC, Fox is positioned to expedite her initial goal far beyond her original dreams! The Cochran Firm, built on the legacy of iconic legal mastermind Johnnie L. Cochran, Jr. is a national law firm with offices located throughout the country.

The Cochran Firm Charlotte, now helmed by Fox, is the first office in the state, and will offer residents unprecedented access for the compassionate handling of legal matters and concerns. "It is a privilege to be working amongst some of the greatest legal minds in the legal field and call them partner," expresses Fox. "I never met Johnnie Cochran personally, but he inspired me immensely and made me want to be the kind of lawyer he was; a winner who exhibited great empathy for his clients and held a high regard for the law. At the time, I had no idea what a tall order that truly was. I am excited beyond verbal explanation to be a part of his legacy and to introduce the state of North Carolina to The Cochran Firm."

Astute observers might say that Faith Fox has always displayed excellent leadership qualities. A native of Philadelphia, PA, she graduated with a Bachelor of Arts from Temple University's Department of Media Studies and Production before launching her first career in the entertainment business. Fox made great strides early on holding positions that included working as a production assistant to legendary jazz musician and producer George Duke; serving as general manager for CME Records, distributed by MCA and owned by Carl Martin from the R&B group Shai; and road manager to singing greats Boys II Men, Brownstone and countless other artists. Her successful 20-year career in the entertainment industry also saw her as a consultant negotiating multimillion-dollar contracts for some of the music industry's most notable recording artists.

Life happened and Fox's path was eventually transformed, first by a failed marriage, followed by the death of her mother while she was pregnant with her eldest child. However, divorce, child support battles and family court put Fox on the legal path she was destined for.

Attorney Faith Fox The
Charlotte Firm

“When my ex-husband hired a lawyer to fight me for full custody of our son, I wasn’t able to do the same. As a single mom receiving little to no child support, I could not afford the legal fees. My ex’s lawyer operated unscrupulously and before I knew it, I was sitting in court defending myself despite doing all of the heavy lifting with regard to raising my children. When I left court that day in September 2011, I was determined to never allow myself to be in such a powerless position of advocacy for myself and my children, ever again. I was determined to fix things for myself and prevent others like me from ever experiencing it as well.”

Fox went on to pursue a law degree, completing courses while working, and finished the four-year, part-time program in just two years. She graduated cum laude with distinctive honors in pro bono service, while consistently achieving “Best Advocate” during regional competitions on the Trial Team Advocacy Honor Board. Â

“With 31 offices located in 19 different states, The Cochran Firm Charlotte is a great expansion and addition to our legal brand,” citesÂ Keith Givens, the managing shareholder of The Cochran Firm. “Faith Fox wasÂ selected as a member of our firm because she is recognized as an outstanding attorney with a national reputation. She is very active in the National Bar Association and well respected by our partners. She is a great candidate to assist us in building a presence in North Carolina. We are excited to have her join our team!”

The Cochran Firm has established itself as one of the premier plaintiffs’ litigation and criminal defense law firms in the country for over 40 years. With offices throughout the United States, The Cochran Firm boasts some of the most highly respected and experienced men and women in the legal field in the country. As managing partner at The Cochran Firm Charlotte, Fox will oversee the North Carolina state operation and offer services that include personal injury, civil rights, wrongful death, family law, negligence, medical malpractice and more.
