

Dear White People Opens This Weekend

Justin Simien's satire about Black students at an Ivy League college and their reaction to an annual Halloween party thrown by the school's humor newspaper opens nationwide this week. Showtimes for Dear White People can be found by clicking here.

Dear White People (Red Band Trailer)

[youtube id="zs8H8qWkrxY"]

Justin Simien's Dear White People seeks to open a national dialogue about race in "post-racial" America. The film centers around a group of Black students attending an Ivy League college and an African-American themed party given by white students which causes a riot. The movie was received well at Sundance this year and will be in theaters October 24th.