

Media Questions Of The Week

The image shows a placeholder for an Instagram post. At the top left, there is a circular profile picture placeholder and two horizontal bars representing the name and bio. In the center, there is the Instagram logo. Below the logo, there is a blue link that says "View this post on Instagram". The main content area of the post is a large, light gray rectangle with a scalloped right edge, indicating a blurred image. Below this, there are two more horizontal bars representing the caption. At the bottom, there is a line of text that reads "A post shared by HOLLYWOOD UNLOCKED (@hollywoodunlocked)".

Was it necessary for the LA Times to announce the death of rapper DMX with a headline that included references to his drug addiction and legal problems?Â

If I'm being honest with y'all . Female rap is really boring to me right now

– CupcakKe (@CupcakKe_rapper) April 5, 2021

Is CupcakKe right that women rappers are boring at the moment?Â

Lena Waithe is unwell. Her art is telling me things I donâ€™t like. Where did she grow up, go to school, hang out with? What inspires her art? These projects sheâ€™s putting out...eh.

– AshleyStevens (@The_Acumen) April 10, 2021

Is Lena Waithe making trauma porn about Black people because of the violence in two of the episodes of the Amazon horror series Them that she executive-produced?Â