

Elmiene Makes Breakup Sound Good On Sweetness

Credit: Toby Coulson

Elmiene connects with frequent collaborator producer Dahi for “Sweetness.” Cam Hicks directs the video for one of the prettiest breakup songs. The R&B singer from the UK was last heard from when he released “Crystal Tears” last month. Elmiene’s buzz has grown since his Marking My Time and El-Mean EPs were released in 2023. He has sold-out gigs on his home turf and in the United States scheduled this spring. He will perform at the Non-COMMvention in Philadelphia during the second week of May. Fans want to know when he will release a full-length album but until then they will continue to champion his fuzzy falsetto that charms upon an immediate listen to his music.

Elmiene Drops Crystal Tears & Announces Sold Out World Tour

Credit: Sirui

UK soul crooner Elmiene shares his new single “Crystal Tears” and announces his sold-out world tour. The singer released the LIVE At Rak Studios EP in January after his well-received Marking My Time project of 2023. Producer D'Mile brings out Elmiene's best on "Crystal Tears" with bluesy acoustic guitar sketches that give his falsetto enough room to soar in space continuously. At times Elmiene has sonic resemblances to Dave Hollister and Raphael Saadiq's voices belying a soulful maturity beyond his 22 years. On April 4th, he kicks off his first world tour show at the Alexandra Palace Theatre in his native London. The last show will be at the El Rey Theatre in Los Angeles.

Tour Dates

4/4 – London, ENG @ Alexandra Palace Theatre

4/6 – Berlin, GER @ Theaterdeck

4/7 – Amsterdam, NL @ Control

4/9 – Paris, FR @ La Boule Noire

4/25 – Atlanta, GA @ Vinyl at Center Stage Theater

4/27 – Chicago, IL @ Schubas Tavern SOLD OUT

4/28 – Brooklyn, NY @ Roulette SOLD OUT

5/1 – Los Angeles, CA @ El Rey Theatre SOLD OUT

Elmiene Announces Def Jam EP

Elmiene's next EP is coming out this fall via Def Jam/Polydor. "Marking My Time" is the title track co-written with Jamie Woon and James Vincent McMorrow. The R&B singer's fervid life overview is almost acapella with a violin and guitar as the only other sounds mingling with his vocals. He released the El-Mean EP independently last spring to critical acclaim. The British crooner explained the new EP in a press release:

"The general theme of this project is trying to mark my time not in terms of history but just for me personally, so I don't get lost. Almost making a checkpoint to anchor myself. Even sonically it's like I'm marking my stamp that I put on things. Because I'm so deep in looking back behind me, I always found myself stumbling over what's gonna happen next. So when my life started speeding up massively, I had to learn how to keep an eye on both sides – appreciating the past in order to do the future the right way and do it justice."

Marking My Time will be released on October 20th and Elmiene will go on a brief tour of North America on the 29th.

"HEY SIRI
WHEN IS ELMIENE IN NORTH AMERICA?"

OCT 29 / NOV 1 / NOV 9
TORONTO / NYC / LA
TICKETS at EL-MEAN.COM

Elmiene Releases Confessional Single Mama

Credit: Pierre Girardin

British R&B singer Elmiene rolls out his newest single “Mama.” The confessional track was co-written and produced by Sampha. Elmiene’s vulnerable quest for unconditional love from his mother is woeful and honest in its tone. His plea for love as an imperfect son comes after “Mad At Fire” which was released earlier in the summer. Pierre Girardin photographed the shots for the “Mama” visualizer that features Elmiene singing in a creek. The budding artist’s debut EP El-Mean came out this past spring. He will be going on a tour of North America in the fall with stops in Toronto, New York and Los Angeles.

