Freddie Gibbs and The Alchemist are following up their Alfredo album with Alfredo 2. Today they share "1995" from the project and Alfredo: The Movie. A select group of fans attended a screening of the film yesterday at Brain Dead Studios in Los Angeles. Nick Walker directed the movie, which takes place in Japan and sees the rapper and producer playing the roles of noodle masters and underworld bad guys. Gibbs has been comfortable in front of the camera since his critically acclaimed performance in Down With The King. Alfredo 2 will be released this Friday, five years after they debuted Alfredo. One hundred fans were able to procure signed vinyl copies of the album last weekend during an event at HVW8 Gallery in Los Angeles that was sponsored by Rotation, a Black music brand with Amazon. Gibbs raps about his steady come-up that moved him from being a grinding underground rapper to a presence on Netflix in “1995.” The Alchemist has been busy working on an album with Erykah Badu, which shows three decades of relevance as a producer. Alfredo II promises to be as rugged as the Grammy-nominated initial release and “1995” delivers on Gibbs’ brand of no-nonsense, but at times humorous, street-inspired rhymes.

Freddie Gibbs Shares Rabbit Vision Video

Freddie Gibbs released the autobiographical video for “Rabbit” from his $oul $old $eparately album yesterday. Scenes of Gibbs performing, being a father and playing golf are intertwined to give a look at his life. The rapper also launched the Rabbits By Carrots streetwear brand as a result of his partnership with Anwar Carrots. The Spring/Summer 2023 collection has already been posted at the online shop. In 2022, he starred in Down With The King, a movie about a rapper taking a respite from society and living on a farm.

Gibbs will be performing on The Tonight Show Starring Jimmy Fallon with anderson.paak and The Roots on January 23rd. Special limited vinyl copies of $old $oul $eparately will be available on March 22nd.

Freddie Gibbs' $old $oul
$eparately Bonus Edition
Released

Freddie Gibbs by Nick Walker

Freddie Gibbs' $old $oul $eparately bonus edition was released today. The album now includes five more songs including "Ice Cream" feat. Rick Ross, "Big Boss Rabbit," "Gang Signs" feat. ScHoolboy Q, "Black Illuminati" feat. Jadakiss, and "4 Thangs" feat. Big Sean & Hit-Boy. The concept behind the album is based around the fictional Triple S Resort and Casino which is a reference to the gambles Gibbs has taken to have his career. Longtime collaborators Madlib and The Alchemist are among the producers in addition to people like DJ Paul and Kaytranada. Gibbs is having a good year with the success of $old $oul $eparately and his work as an actor on the popular Power Book IV: Force, Diego Ongaro's Down With The King and Peacock's Bust Down.

Freddie Gibbs Makes Film Debut In Down With The King

Freddie Gibbs is stepping in front of the camera more as an actor. He just appeared in the television series Power Book IV: Force and Peacock's Bust Down and now he is sharing his debut in a feature film with Down With The King. Xabi Molia and Diego Ongaro co-wrote the film and Ongaro is also the director. The story follows Gibbs' character Money Merc who also is a rapper and his manager-directed retreat from the music industry on a farm. The audience sees Merc submerge himself into the rural community while contemplating his career as he goes through a deeper self-discovery that leads him to a new path. Gibbs also serves as an executive producer on the film that is a critics' choice selection at 26 film festivals. Down With The King comes out June 28th via video on demand.
