

A Gangsta Boo Posthumous Album Coming

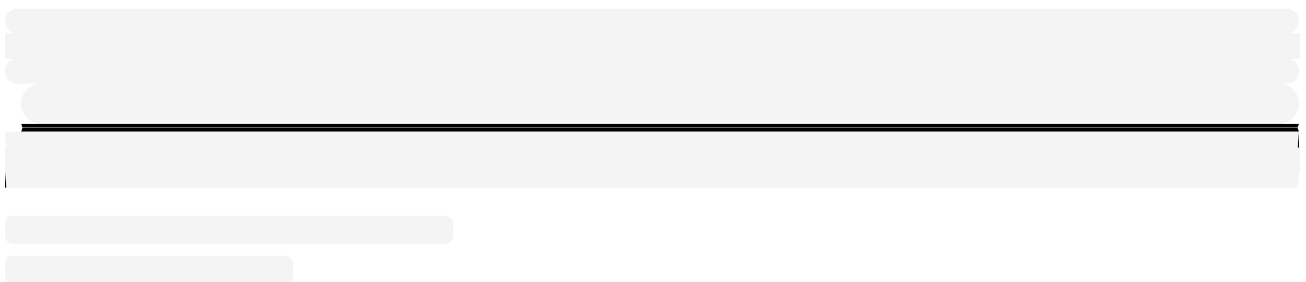

A posthumous Gangsta Boo album is on the way later this year. The Three 6 Mafia legend died on January 1st at age 43 of a drug overdose. La Chat, Latto, Skepta and Crunchy Black are on the album and Drumma Boy, El-P and Nick Hook are the producers. Gangsta Boo's estate has also launched a new merchandise website with some of the proceeds going to the Stax Music Academy. The untitled album is scheduled to be released on August 7th which would have been her 44th birthday.

View this post on Instagram

Women Of Southern Rap Talk About Their Music

[youtube id="-ll6Y0HX7t8"]The third episode of Red Bull's Momentum series is dedicated to the queens of southern rap. Gangsta Boo, La Chat, bbymutha are profiled and give separate interviews about their lives as women rappers in the south. Newcomer Rico Nasty, who hails from the DMV, shares her experience as woman heavily influenced by the south.Â

Gangsta Boo-Loc'd Out Smoked Out Official Video

[youtube id="Cp_jell-Jps"] Gangsta Boo reconfirms her love of cannabis in her video for "Loc'd Smoked Out" where she spends the entire time at an indoor marijuana farm. The song is between her Candy, Diamonds & Pills mixtape from last year and her next release.

Gangsta Boo-Smoked Out Loc'd Out

Gangsta Boo has been busy touring with Run The Jewels and last year she released her Candy, Diamonds & Pills mixtape. "Smoked Out Loc'd Out" is a new single from her about her love of cannabis produced by Stunt N Dozier.