

Harvey Sutherland Releases Video For Type A Feat sos

Melbourne producer, DJ and keyboard player Harvey Sutherland releases the video for "Type A" featuring sos ahead of his Boy album coming later this month. Sutherland catches an '80s new wave vibe with funky synthesizers and sos's staid vocals. The song is a tribute to the overachieving type A personality type. The visual features Sutherland and sos performing in a dimly-lit room taking turns confronting the camera with manic stares. Sutherland aka Mike Katz has been growing his resume of funk-based instrumentals. "Type A" follows the recently released "Feelings Of Love" featuring D?M-FunK which will be included on Sutherland's Boy debut that will drop on April 29th.

Listen: Harvey Sutherland-Something In The Water Feat. Jace XL

Harvey Sutherland is an Australian DJ and producer when he's not playing the synthesizer with his band. "Something In The Water" is a song about the environment and it is their first single. The funky composition has vocals from Melbourne R&B singer Jace XL. The lyrical warnings about summer getting hotter and winter getting colder give way to a house music production much faster than Sutherland's initial keyboard sketches. A full-length album will be released March 29th and it is available for pre-order but "Something In The Water" is available now.Â

Something In The Water by Harvey Sutherland