Sean Price who was a member of '90's hip-hop group Boot Camp Clik died suddenly in his sleep today. Boot Camp Clik was critically acclaimed and one of the key groups to dominate Brooklyn's underground rap scene. Price was also one-half of Heltah Skeltah where he rapped under the name Ruck. In 2011 he recorded with Black Milk and Guilty Simpson as one-third of their Random Axe project. His fourth studio album, Songs In The Key Of Price is scheduled for release August 21st.
