

Insecure Season 4 Soundtrack Is Now Available

HB0 has released the soundtrack to season 4 of Insecure. The show is popular for its music as much as its storylines. Issa Rae, who is the star of the series, partnered with Atlantic to launch her Raedio label to support independent, Black and women artists. She has a similar mission for Insecure and with music supervisor, Kier Lehman made sure to present music that reflects Los Angeles and female energy. LION BABE, Kirby and The Free Nationals are just a few of the artists that have graced the show. Stream the soundtrack and see the season finale Sunday at 10 PM ET.Â Â

Watch: Trailer For Insecure Season 4

[youtube id="PxKK3rU2PP4"]Issa Rae's Insecure is coming back for a fourth season on April 12th on HB0 and the trailer came out today. Rae looks in the mirror and reignites her rapper persona as she starts her day. Her rap about building her confidence and the change to her figure is a humorous tease for fans ready for the next chapter of the show. There is just as much curiosity about the plot as there is about who will be on the new soundtrack.Â

Media Questions Of The Week

Are fans ready for an Issa Rae-produced remake of Set It Off?Â

Will the Whitney Houston hologram tour be well-received by her fans?Â

#Beyoncé has 133 million Instagram followers. More than double the people who voted for Trump. Wouldn't it be amazing if the #BeyHive mobilized to defeat him? I also wouldn't mind if a regular bee hive fucked his shit up.

– bettemidler (@BetteMidler) September 19, 2019

Was Bette Midler's suggestion thatÂ Beyonce's Instagram followers were plentiful enough to vote Trump out of office misplaced and more appropriate for the white people in Midler's life?Â

Watch: Insecure Season 3 Official Trailer

[youtube id="seBX3jq0r64"]Issa Rae's Insecure returns to HBO for Season 3 in August. The trailer is a quick overview of Rae's character and her friends discovering themselves while trying to have relationships. There is just enough mystery to keep the questions coming about the plotline but fans want to know if Jay Ellis is coming back to the show. Season 3 of Insecure premieres August 12th on HBO.