

Watch: Juliet July's Sunday Afternoon Video

[youtube id="05dZ58_6hSE"]Juliet July brings an ancient love story to life in her video for "Sunday Afternoon." The Netherlands native is preparing her Palmtrees In The Mist EP for release next year and "Sunday Afternoon" is the first single from the project. The video was shot in South Africa and the Netherlands and the imagery goes back and forth between contemporary scenery and ancient Egyptian motifs. The concept of resurrection that was integral to the story of Osiris is implied among the period costumes. Palmtrees In The Mist will follow her 2018 Summer Rain EP.Â

Juliet July Contemplates Relationships In Video For Don't Run

[youtube id="7dSM7SSc5PY"] Netherlands singer and model Juliet July returns with the relationship-oriented song "Don't Run" and a visual for it. The song explores the ambiguous feelings of wanting intimacy from a partner but pushing them away at the same time out of fear. In the video, she and her man embrace but moments later she stands alone in a moment of contemplative caution. TheÂ video for the Virgil Lewis-produced song is her second and the filming took place in Capetown.Â

Juliet July Releases First Video For Worlds Unknown

[youtube id="moyX5rnJtaw"] Juliet July is a singer and a model from The Netherlands. "Worlds Unknown" is her first single and video. In the visual, July is part of a swirling kaleidoscope of the world, nature and night time in the city. The Amsterdam native has plans to expand her sound but is introducing herself to music audiences with "Worlds Unknown."