

Kandace Springs Pays Tribute To Sade With Pearls Official Video

[youtube id="Ycpy2jtuoiw"]Kandace Springs shows her admiration for Sade with her rendition of "Pearls" featuring Avishai Cohen. The video features her playing with an all-woman band and taking the subway in New York City. The song is part of her new album called The Women Who Raised Me. Springs dedicated all of the music to the women artists she has been inspired by all her life. Ella Fitzgerald, Billie Holiday and Roberta Flack are a few more of the songstressess Springs honors. She has also fulfilled a dream by recording a duet with Norah Jones of Fitzgeralds's "Angel Eyes." The Women Who Raised Me will come out March 27th on Blue Note Records.Â Â

---

Kandace Springs: Indigo Album Stream

Kandace Springs' returns two years after her debut album Soul Eyes with her new project Indigo. Karriem Riggins-produced most of the album that reflects Springs' appreciation for pop, jazz and R&B. The singer and piano player co-wrote some of the songs, covered some classics and went contemporary with Gabriel Garzón-Montano's "6 8." She explained her style choices to uDiscover Music:

"I grew up on jazz, it's in my soul. I was going to be a jazz artist and then my dad said, 'You're not just a jazz artist, you're a hybrid.' I'd love to do a pure jazz album of covers. That would be cool."

Indigo is retail available and Springs is currently touring the United States.

---

Kandace Springs: 6 8 Official Video

[youtube id="8rf5M70eXAE"]Kandace Springs delivers a black and white video for "68" a late-night seduction from the forthcoming Indigo. It's just Springs, her piano and the camera in the clip that conveys the meaning of "68" with minimalism. Indigo is available for pre-order ahead of the September 7th release and Springs is on tour.

---

Kandace Springs Releases Video For Don't Need The Real Thing

[youtube id="kdJk8Iz2dZ8"]Kandace Springs shares her video for "Don't Need The Real Thing" from ahead of her Indigo album release. The visual follows her and a lover as they take a road trip and deal with their personal conflicts. The single which uses a sample of Lou Reed's "Walk On The Wild Side" has more of a pop feel compared to the music from her debut album. Indigo is her sophomore project and it comes out September 7th.