Kid Koala and Trixie Whitley share another collaboration from Koala's Music To Draw To Io: with the single "Hera's Song." The sparse dystopian track features Whitley's forlorn vocals, a controlled cacophony and then silence. According to Koala, the ambient sounds of the new album are intended to give the listener room to hear their own ideas. There is also a video for "Lost At Sea" that also pushes the idea of self-reflection for the listener. Music To Draw To: Io officially comes out January 25th.Â
