

Cannabis Trailblazer Ed "NJ Weedman" Forchion Passes The Joint to His Son, King Forchion, with His Miami Expansion

Miami, FL – Marijuana has finally become a family tradition for Ed "NJ Weedman" Forchion and his five children, Chanel, Ajanea, Daeja, King and Vanessa. Considered by many to be the "Kardashians of Kush," they are all busy holding down the day to day operations at his "NJ Weedman's Joint" in New Jersey as well as his new hip hop art and music lounge, The Joint of Miami in Florida. With Forchion now busy fielding offers to branch out and expand in other states, he is officially "passing The Joint" to his son, King "Krefriiii" Forchion appointing him CEO of The Joint of Miami. The "budding" 23 year old will oversee a staff of weed loving employees who are working to enhance entertainment in Miami and infuse nightlife with the sweet aroma of Mary Jane. King is one of the youngest hip hop canna-preneur club owners in the nightlife industry.

The Joint of Miami, located in Miami's trendy Wynwood Art District, officially opened the Fourth of July weekend, with "Krefriiii" being thrown in the fire of learning to manage a bustling enterprise. As the first cannabis consumer friendly art and music lounge in Wynwood, the location boasts the work of visual artists from across the country as well as local Miami talent featured in the venue's indoor and outdoor gallery. Nightly entertainment runs the gamut of comedy, spoken word, reggae, hip hop, jazz and even a Grateful Dead cover band. With a full bar and a "munchie" food truck on site, the venue is set up as a haven for cannabis fueled enjoyment.

“I witnessed my dad go through so much while growing up,” expresses King. “The battles he fought for the marijuana community trickled down to affect me and my siblings probably the hardest. What was sacrificed during our youth, he is making up for now.” I’ve been handed a thriving business to oversee with the goal of expanding his legacy of activism and dedication to the cannabis community. “Legalization and inclusion are still an ongoing battle, yes, but The Joint of Miami is setting a new precedent in entertainment.” Because of his work and pioneers like him, cannabis is a more accepted part of the culture for my generation. “This has been my dream for decades,” adds Ed. “My kids did without while I languished on the front lines fighting for legalization for decades.” Finally, the world is waking up to what we have known for years. With cannabis now being commercialized however, it’s important that legacy participants like myself continue to stand our ground and secure our piece of this multi-billion-dollar industry. “I’m extremely happy and proud to witness my son stand in my shoes, not as a worn-down activist, but as a young businessman.” Even more than legalization, to be able to see my children follow in my footsteps, what more can a weed dad ask for!

A cult figure in the marijuana legalization community, Forchion has since become one of the most vocal and controversial members of the pro-pot movement. He is the founder of the Legalize Marijuana Party of New Jersey and has run previous campaigns for Governor, U.S. Senate, Congress, the State Legislature, and the Burlington County Board of Freeholders. “After decades of public persecution, Ed Forchion is finally being applauded for his decades of activism. He has spoken on virtual panels at Stockton and Princeton University and was featured on NBC News in New York, ABC-TV Nightline, Cheddar News, VICE News” and most recently MSNBC’s “Into America.”

With King “Krefriiii” Forchion heading The Joint of Miami operation, while the rest of the Forchion clan hold down NJWeedman’s Joint in Trenton, NJ, Weedman can remain busy expanding his brand, exploring consultation and franchise opportunities in several other states.
