

Todd Terry Remixes Lion Babe's Love Another Time

House legend Todd Terry remixes Lion Babe's "Love Another Time." The duo's latest tune gets a squirmy bassline and accentuated synths under Terry's touch. The changes to the original version add more fanfare to the single and conjure up visions of huge dance floors, disco lights, and moving bodies. The duo has consistently contributed to the genre with memorable past reworkings of Nelly's "Hot In Herre" and Yasiin Bey's "Umi Says." "Love Another Time" marks the next phase of Lion Babe's house evolution and a meeting of a pioneer with contemporary artists, thus ensuring the genre's survival in the 21st century. "Love Another Time" is streaming on digital platforms, and Lion Babe has also dropped new merchandise.

Lion Babe Present Video For Radiant Child

Lion Babe's visual for "Radiant Child" is here and it's a study in subtle movement and heavy emotion. In less than three minutes they grab the heart with Jillian's words. The duo just revealed their own "Radiant Child" with the birth of their son in December. They released their fourth album Rainbow Child in 2021.Â

Watch: Lion Babe-It's Okay Feat. OSHUN

Lion Babe link with OSHUN for "It's Okay" and they all are present for the video. The fifth visual from Lion Babe's Rainbow Child is a fanciful moment of soft colors and nighttime at the SeaGlass Carousel at Battery Park in New York City. Their fluid moments among the shifting fish and dancing against the nocturnal sky are all the escape they need from naysayers they sing about ignoring in the song. Rainbow Child is Lion Babe's gift from their quarantine seclusion. They will perform the current album next Tuesday, September 28th at Elsewhere in Brooklyn.Â
