

M.I.A.-Bring The Noize

[youtube]cCkIYkaLBGs[/youtube]

M.I.A.'s Public Enemy-inspired "Bring The Noize" is an assortment of cultural insurgents who appear backstage at a fashion show, a nightclub and a video set. Matangi has a Fall release date.

---

Media Questions Of The Week

1. Did M.I.A.'s label really tell her that her new music is "too positive?"

[youtube]kxdXvirRwAo[/youtube]

2. Will there be a "CB4" remake now that the film has reached its 20th anniversary?

Unfortunately your browser does not support IFrames.

Watch More News Videos at ABC

3. Will Tyler Perry's $100,000 offer to unravel the missing persons cases of Terrance Williams and Felipe Santos lead to the case being solved?

4. Would white music critics be praising Chief Keef's music so much if they were economically stuck living in the same neighborhood as Keef and his friends before he got his deal? And why do these white critics always have to create an ahistorical context for stuff like

Keef's music to justify a lack of craft?

---

Media Questions Of The Week

1. What will Q-Tip and Kendrick Lamar come up with?

[youtube]R0khklj0ZGs[/youtube]

2. Was Madonna serious when she called M.I.A.'s flipping the bird during the Superbowl performance "childish and irrelevant?"

3. Isn't Blue Ivy adorable?

---

M.I.A. -Bad Girls

[youtube]2uYs0gJD-LE[/youtube]

M.I.A. debuted this video for "Bad Girls" today and it serves as a lead single for her fourth album that will come in the summer. It's perfect timing for the video as she performing at the Superbowl this Sunday with Madonna and Nicki Minaj.