

Watch: Anderson.Paak-Cut Em In Feat. Rick Ross Official Video

Anderson.Paak uncloaks his self-directed video for “Cut Em In” featuring Rick Ross. The two have fun pretending to be perpetual high school students and paak is later joined by the marching band. The song is one of the highlights of the Madden 21 soundtrack. The school party ends with anderson.paak reminding everyone of his multiple abilities as he plays the drums.Â

---

Talib Kweli Performs Heads Up Eyes Open On The Tonight Show With Rick Ross & Yummy Bingham

[youtube id="xc6TyaW0Ppw"] Talib Kweli's Radio Silence is another triumph for his ever-growing discography. He performed "Heads Up Eyes Open" on The Tonight Show Starring Jimmy Fallon with Rick Ross and Yummy Bingham. Kweli recently got into a heated Twitter chat with professional poker players who are fans because of their belief that Kweli's lyrical content is "obnoxious" and not the reason that people listen to his music. The rapper, who has built a 20-plus year career based on his political viewpoints explained that the choice to depoliticize his music is racist.

---

Talib Kweli Links With Rick Ross & Yummy Bingham On Heads Up Eyes Open

Talib Kweli connects with Rick Ross and Yummy Bingham on the single “Heads Up Eyes Open.” Kweli raps philosophically about human behavior and Ross addresses ethics while Bingham sings the hook. “Heads Up Eyes Open” is from Kweli’s forthcoming Radio Silence due November 17th.

---

Media Questions Of The Week

1. Will Zoe Saldana play Betty Davis in the Don Cheadle-directed Shoot The Trumpeter about Mile Davis's life?

2. What will Bobby Womack sound like on a Rick Ross song?

3. Has there been a shortage of Black women on SNL, and if so, is Lorne Michaels really having a hard time finding Black female comedians who have the skills for the show?