

Media Questions Of The Week

[youtube]BV3e0x40XDE[/youtube]

1. Even if Nicki Minaj endorsed Romney as a publicity stunt, was it really a smart one?

2. Why would Essence magazine, the magazine for Black women in America, have a problem with Jill Scott wearing her natural hair on the cover of the October 2012 issue? And why haven't they put Gabby Douglas and/or the Black Olympians on the cover?

3. Now that Pitchfork has done a retraction of their video of Chief Keef at a firing range in response to the rapper being investigated for making a joke about the death of rapper LilJojo on Twitter, why did they think it was OK in the first place?

[youtube]M005RIvSxCI[/youtube]

4. Did you know that Chi Ali was released from prison last week?

[youtube]PCCGIXME164[/youtube]

[youtube]NcsqHzUz_EI[/youtube]

5. Don't you think Floetry sounds better together?

The Floacist-Say Yes

[youtube]NcsqHzUz_EI[/youtube]

Natalie Stewart aka The Floacist is bringing Floetry back and this jazzy rendition of “Say Yes” is the start of it. The Floacist Presents: Floetry Rebirth comes out November 13th.

The Floacist-Keep It Going

[youtube]h61RC10hBYQ&[/youtube]

Natalie Stewart has returned with another video from The Floacist Presents Floetic Soul. “Keep It Going” has Raheem DeVaughn guesting on this track about maintaining love.

The Floacist-Let Me

[youtube]SPDBUrKZMAk&[/youtube]

The Floacist goes almost completely bare in this new video for “Let Me” that was directed by Nolan Weekes.