

Bee Boisseau & Raheem DeVaughn Kick Off Super Bowl Weekend With NFL Single

Bee Boisseau is a new artist signed to Raheem DeVaughn's DMG label and today he shares his debut single "NFL." The rapper and keyboard player, who is a Richmond, Virginia native, collaborates with DeVaughn on the song about Colin Kaepernick kneeling for social justice controversy. The song is from Boisseau's forthcoming debut album, Back To Love which reflects his multi-genre influences of jazz, soul and hip-hop. Wes Felton is responsible for the commentary of "NFL" and Boisseau explained the song's purpose, "The message is not so much about the National Football

â€œThe message is not so much about the National Football League; it's about the injustices and police brutality against people of color. I don't want that message to get lost at all.
